

North Berwick Trust
Chair of Board of Trustees
Voluntary position

North Berwick in East Lothian is one of Scotland's most beautiful, historic and desirable places to live and to visit.

Famously, Robert Louis Stevenson spent many holidays in the town during his childhood. The nearby island of Fidra is said to be the original inspiration for Treasure Island. In the 16th century, the "Auld Kirk Green" at the harbour was used for gatherings by the accused in the notorious North Berwick Witch Trials.

The former Royal Burgh has a population of 6,600 people. North Berwick Trust was set up in 1973 to support and benefit them in a multiplicity of ways. It distributes £200,000 a year to communities, groups and individuals. It is a much valued and respected organisation which fulfils an important role in the lives of local residents.

Do you know and have a love of North Berwick? Have you got the skills, experience and commitment to be the Trust's next Chair of the Board of Trustees? If so, we'd love to hear from you.

Closing Date: 5pm on Monday 15th April
